that he has been a candidate on the state ticket in a past campaign. His backers are reticent as to the part of the state their candidate halls from, but politicians in New Haven believe that some democrat in the central part of the state has been selected, and they are of the opinion that a man has been chosen who can divide Comstock's support in his own territory, the Second congressional district. There was much guess work as to the identity of the candidate.

New Haven politicians believe that unless the insurgents are certain they have developed strength enough to defeat Comstock there will be no contest in Saturday's meeting of the committee. The Day of Atonement, or Yom Kippur, is the most sacred of all Jew-ish holy days. It occurs this year on Saturday, Sept. 21, beginning, as do al. Jewish holidays, on the evening of the day previous and closing at sundown on that day.

In the Jewish calendar it falls on the 10th day of the seventh month, Tishri, and is the culmination of ten days of solemn meditation and reflection that began with the New Year.

It is a day devoted to prayer and penitence, a day whereon through confession and contrition the soul aims to After the death of Mr. Waterman, Mr. Bailey had James M. Peckham for his partner for several months, when he purchased his interest and con-ducted the business himself, and the business increased even more than be-fore. Besides this, he owned and con-ducted a saw and grist mill and shops pentience, a day wherein through the fession and contrition the soul aims to be at one with its God, to seek His mercy and earn His pardon.

The ancient service of the day, with its elaborate ritual and imposing priestly sacrifice and confessional, has disappeared before the truer spiritual tentificance, that makes it appeal to of various kinds, where he made and repaired his wagons, sheed his horses and practically did everything within himself. About 18 years ago Mr. Bailey bought the William Backus place at Yante, to which he removed from Brozrah and had lived there since. In politics he was a republican. He had been assessor and first selectman, and in 1860 was a member of the general assembly, and in 1872 he represented the Ninth senatorial district in the senate, serving as chairman of the of various kinds, where he made and significance that makes it appeal to each individual heart and to each single soul. The service lays stress single soul. The service lays stress upon the Divine grace and mercy that are freely held out to the sin-laden breast through penifence and contri-tion. The great lesson of the day is that a contrite heart and an humble spirit are God's most acceptable secri-fice and that the fountain of His freehe senate, serving as chairman of the ine senaie, serving as chairman of the committee on roads and bridges.
